Automated Clearing House (ACH) transactions must be entered with the correct account information in order to process successfully. In the event of a rejection due to incorrect account information not the result of a processing error, Millennium Trust will charge the participant $15 per rejection. This fee is applied to offset the cost of the additional processing.

If a residual dividend is received into your account following the complete distribution of all assets in the account to you ("Trailing Dividend"), the amount of the Trailing Dividend will be first allocated to satisfy the fee required to process a recurring distribution (see above). Following the satisfaction of all applicable distribution fees, the remaining funds in your account, if any, shall be distributed to you. You understand that no distribution will occur if the amount of the Trailing Dividend is less than the applicable distribution fees.

All fees related to establishing and maintaining the account will be deducted from the account on a prorated basis across all investments upon the establishment of the account and then taken in the same manner each quarter. All other fees are deducted at the time of occurrence. These fees are not reportable transactions for tax purposes.

Note: The Account Fee is based on the balance of the IRA at the time of billing. If at the time of billing, or when any other action is requested, the account balance is less than or equal to the charge, the entire account will be liquidated and closed. Furthermore, any billing action or distribution activity equaling 90% or more of the account balance will also liquidate and close the account.

Accountholder Responsibility - It is the responsibility of the accountholder to periodically review and update account and contact information or respond to requests to do so. Any fees or penalties levied that result from an accountholder's inaction, unresponsiveness, or misinformation will be charged to the account.

Cash Sweep Program – If you elect to diversify out of the default investment selected for your account, any uninvested cash in your IRA (resulting from the sale of an account asset, additional contributions or otherwise) will be placed in FDIC-insured, interest-bearing, demand accounts at banks not affiliated with Millennium under a cash sweep program, until you direct otherwise. For additional information regarding the program, please refer to your Custodial Agreement.

Custodian may receive fees in return for providing certain shareholder or recordkeeping services. The amount of these fees is as permitted by law or regulation and may change over time.
